You know more is possible. You long for purposeful work and an environment that encourages authenticity and growth. With the wave of Millennials coming through, the way we manage our organisations and our people is being challenged, calling to a shift.

We are in a relationship of some kind with different people every day, from those we know well to complete strangers.

The Nature of Conversations 1 day programme, provides practical and applicable coaching principles to grow your emotional intelligence, develop team synchronicity, and grow your ability to optimise conversations.

This programme brings together two powerful programmes - TetraMap and Navigational Conversations. It identifies natural behavioural preferences with the ability to accentuate and navigate conversations for improved individual and team performance, plus a healthier organisation culture.

This is a great follow on for anyone that's experienced TetraMap's 'Why Are You Like That' and wants to:

- Go deeper into a leadership coaching and the conversational space
- Focus on emotional intelligence and its powerful link with TetraMap; plus
- Combine the powerful key of blending a coach approach into your conversations

If you are someone taking up on these skills for the first time, a seasoned coach, or anywhere in between - you'll find yourself mastering the art of blending these three powerful keys together.

You'll receive a Participant Workbook, with additional A5 coaching model card, plus an insightful 'gold mine' summary on how generic Coaching Principles work with TetraMap Natures.

You'll develop insights into -

- Growing and developing your communication style
- The ways you can accelerate positive, productive conversations
- Navigating more courageous conversations, and
- How to bring about + sustain long-term change

This is a personal development programme that will add value for you and others at a deeper level.

You are the change maker. Your time is now.
